

BOOGIE BOARDING AT THE BEACH

Mali 3rd Grade

Golden Star Education

Narrator: On a hot summer afternoon four boogie boarding enthusiasts set out for the beach. Lily, Kinny, and their dad's carried their boogie boards to the sand, and got ready to ride some waves.

Kinny: I've waited soooooo long to go to the beach and boogie board with you guys!

Lily: Same! I'm the best at boogie boarding!

Kinny: NO, I AM!!!

The Dad's: Calm down girls, we are not here to compete, but to have fun.

Lily/Kinny: OK, LET'S GO!!!

Narrator: As they were all walking to the water Kinny suddenly stopped when she came across her favorite beach animal.

Kinny: Daddy, Lily COME QUICK, AHHHHH!

The Dad's: What is the matter?

Kinny: SHHH THERE'S A CRAB! Yikes!

Kinny's Dad: Just leave it alone. . .

Kinny: Ok, are you sure?

Kinny's Dad: Yeah, I don't want you to get pinched! Trust me it will be ok ;)

Kinny: Fine (Rolling eyes)

Lily: Let's have a fun day!

Everyone: Yay!

Narrator: Everyone walked into the water, and as they started to paddle out with their boogie boards, they all saw the biggest, raddest wave ever...

Kinny: I totally have dibs on this wave!

Lily: NO, I do!

The Dad's: NO, we do. (Dad's both looking at each other)

Kinny: Sorry, but you know the rul--wait... we all do this wave together.

Everyone else: OK, IT'S A DEAL!

Everyone: WOAHH, WOW, LOOK AT US!!! (Laughter)

Narrator: They all rode the wave perfectly to the shore.

Kinny: Hey guys, how about we all paddle out beyond the breaker, and wait for some more massive waves?

Lily: Ok.

Kinny's Dad: Ok.

Lily's Dad: OK.

Kinny: Let's do this!

Narrator: As they all paddled out, there was a huge wave that they couldn't pass.

Lily: Uh oh. Do you guys see that wave?

Kinny: I see it, that huge wave? It's like a 2 story tall house.

The Dad's: Kids get your boogie boards and dive under it!

Lily/Kinny: Ok I guess, but um how do we do that? Oops to late
AHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH

The Dad's: Girls? Is everyone ok?

Kinny: That was way too much.(cough cough)

Lily: Yeah, I swallowed a ton of salt water, and it tastes awful.

The Dad's: Thank goodness you're both ok. That wave was really big and we were worried about you girls when you didn't answer right away.

Narrator: The group decided to head in for a rest and have some lunch. While eating lunch they were approached by a dog. Kinny and Lily decided to move and the dog wanting the food followed them.

Kinny: Ahh that dog is chasing me. I will go in the ocean surely he can't follow me in there!

Dog: Ruff! Ruff! (Come back here!)

Kinny: That is one smart dog but still, AHHHH!

Dog: Ruff Arf Ruff (Thank you.)

Kinny: Dad! Give me my boogie board! Quickly.

Kinny's Dad: Ok, catch!

Kinny: Thanks so much. Follow me Lily!

Lily: Ok, coming!

Narrator: Kinny and Lily paddled out to the next wave, hoping that the dog would not follow them. The dog followed Lily and Kinny into the ocean. Now, this part might sound crazy, but just go with it.

Kinny: Wow, this dog is crazy fierce, he's still going ooh la la that might be the key to safety, letting the dog onto the boogie board with us.

Kinny: Doggy, doggy, doggy come here.

Narrator: The doggy nudged Kinny off the boogie board.

Lily: Um Kinny, did that dog just do a backflip onto the boogie board with black pixel shades on?

Kinny: Yes, how did he do that?

Lily: ... huh, I guess you do learn something new everyday!

Narrator: The dog had a big grin on his face, with his tongue hanging out, he had just swallowed a ton of salt water.

Kinny: Don't worry little doggy, let's ride in together on the next wave and get you some water.

Narrator: As Kinny, Lily and the dog approached the shore, the dads looked like they were cleaning up a bit. The girls walked up to where their towels were and collapsed laughing. The dog sat down between the two of them and sighed. His owner called him and he disappeared as fast as he had appeared.

The Dad's: Girls, I think it's time to head home for dinner. (the sun was starting to set)

Narrator: The girls and their dad's picked up their stuff and headed to the car.

Kinny: What an amazing day! Let's do that again soon!

Lily: Yes, it was amazing, and the funniest part of the day was when the dog nudged Kinny into the water, and then did that amazing backflip on the board.

Kinny: (Kinny peered at Lily) Fun for who? Well...it was a bit funny. I agree with you Lily, the dog was cool. But the best part of the day was hanging out with you and our dad's.

Lily: I agree!!! You are the best friend I have ever had.

Kinny: Me, too!

The Dad's: We agree girls, it was an amazing day. You both did awesome.

Kinny's dad: What about we meet here the same time next week?

Kinny and Lily: YES! (very loudly)

Lily's dad: It's a date.

Kinny and her dad: Sounds good. See you next week.

Narrator: They got into their cars and headed home. It was dark by the time they got home.

THE END!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!